adeptResponse aR6 High Resolution Power Conditioner

"This is the six-port version of Audience's extremely well respected adept/Response12, and as part of the second generation of these line conditioners, it strikes me as even better than the twelve-port model I had here a year or so ago. It has just a bit less testosterone and a bit more refinement. It retains the earlier model's enhancement of resolution, lowering of noise floor, and overall ability to increase a system's natural smoothness. Its effects are less sensational but more satisfying. It significantly improves the performance of both my Blue Circle and Manley electronics, making them better versions of what they already are. A wonderful little box." -- Bob Neill
